Asiatic-Pacific area and the European-African-Middle East area. He was awarded numerous medals and commendations. His conduct and efficiency ratings ranged from "Satisfactory" to "Excellent," and there was no record of court-martial or absence without official leave. He was granted a "Secret" security clearance on November 9, 1959, which was terminated at the time of his discharge.

All listed references and associates highly recommended FENSTERWALD for a position of trust and confidence with the U. S. Government. However, FBI records indicate that one of his references, JOHN HENRY FAULK, was suspected of being a member of the COMMUNIST PARTY. FAULK was investigated intermittently from 1942-1953. In 1953, FAULK was interviewed by the FBI and admitted he was a communist sympathizer but denied being a COMMUNIST PARTY member. FAULK has made numerous Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts (FOIPA) requests pertaining to himself. Because of denials of some of the information, FAULK has an administrative claim pending against the Bureau.

It should be noted that FENSTERWALD's [redacted], as well as [redacted], was also listed as a frequent requester to FOIPA for information concerning the FBI investigations of assassinations of prominent individuals. b6 per FBI b7C

All listed employments were verified and favorable.

Appropriate law enforcement agency records were checked and contained no information identifiable with FENSTERWALD's listed relatives. However, records on file at the ARLINGTON, VIRGINIA, POLICE DEPARTMENT revealed that on January 20, 1952, FENSTERWALD was cited for speeding 45 miles per hour (MPH) in a 25 MPH zone. On January 21, 1952, the case was disposed when FENSTERWALD pled guilty and was fined $10 plus court costs. On May 8, 1969, he was cited for allowing his dog to run at large, but the charges were dismissed on July 8, 1970.

FENSTERWALD has a current credit rating of "Satisfactory."
